Ab Walker, closest friend of the dead heir to tobacco fortune, already lodged in New York here. Walker was pictured with Libby on the morning of late Thursday.

A report was in circulation that he would pick up his daughter on the way and surrender her to authorities here upon his return.

THINK WIDE CHECK-PASSING RING SHATTERED

FORMER LOCAL CLERK IS HELD

Harold Shaner, 21. With Three Others is Arrested in Chillicothe.

12 PASSED HERE Checks Drawn On Banks Of This City.

Harold Shaner, 21, former drug store employee here, and a resident of 114 W. High-st., is being held by Columbus authorities on a charge of issuing bad checks. Held with Shaner are Paul Harmon, 19, and Pearl Lantz of Lancaster and Richard Sheridan, alias Wilson, of Kingston.

Shaner and Harmon besides facing check charges are also charged with carrying concealed weapons. The two youths were arrested in Chillicothe early Thursday by Night Captain Clark Graves when he saw their car parked on S. Paint-st., opposite a hamburger stand. He searched the machine and found a .32 caliber revolver then placed Shaner and Harmon under arrest.

TELLS EVERYTHING
In the quiz which followed Shaner told police that while he and Harmon were not holdup men they had been passing a number of bad checks. He recited a list of 20 checks which he personally knew had been passed in this city, in Lancaster, and in Columbus. He said he and several friends had been passing checks on each other for some time. While the youths gave their homes as Circleville and Lancaster they have been living recently in an apartment at 381 S. High-st., Columbus.

The list of checks passed, according to Shaner, were 12 passed in this city for a total of $190, three in Columbus for $120, and three in Lancaster for $25. Checks used were on the First National bank and the Third National bank of this city, thus giving rise to the belief that Shaner is the leader of the 'check-passing band.'

BOUGHT CAR, TOO
The youths were driving an Oldsmobile coupe and said they had paid for it with bad checks as well as purchasing license tags, tires and other accessories through the same means. Harmon has been arrested in Chillicothe previously on a theft charge.

The two other youths were arrested at the Columbus address later Thursday. Sheridan, alias Wilson, is said to be the adopted son of Kingston's present mayor.

Columbus detectives have taken Shaner and Harmon with them to Columbus to face check charges there. Though the youths could distinctly remember 18 victims of their activities there were others whom they could not recall. The automobile in which Shaner and Harmon were caught was bought from the Square Deal Auto Co., Columbus, with bad checks. Officers from Columbus were hunting the pair on this charge several days ago in this city, seeking assistance of Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer in making the arrest. Neither of the youths could be found however.

LIST OF CHECKS
Checks they admitted passing in this city were on Andrew Warner, $5; Press Hosler, $10; Circleville Tire and Repair, $30; Mykrantz store, $5; Hamilton & Ryan, $5; a tire company the name not known, $5; Butch Jewelry store, $10; Mack's filling station, $5; Barrere-Nickerson, $3; Pickens Restaurant, $2; Cussins and Fearn, $10, and Circleville Motors, $4.
A warrant for Shaner's arrest is now in the hands of Sheriff Charles Radcliff but the officer had been unable to find the youth. The check, the basis for the charge in Squire E. C. Friece's court, was for $4.50 to be paid to George Woods and was signed by Noel C. Rader. The check was given for gasoline.

CRIST OFFERS SOLUTION FOR RELIEF WORK

Safety Director Would Have Needy Work For County's Money.

PLAN IS STUDIED

Funds of Organizations Here Are Low.

A new relief plan wherein a dollar for relief will be repaid by a dollar's worth of work is being studied by the board of county commissioners with definite action on the plan expected next Monday.

The suggestion was made to the commissioners by J. Wallace Crist, city safety director, who is in charge of the city's poor fund, has found the problem of relief one of the greatest he has ever tried to master.

Mr. Crist has made a thorough study of his plan and believes it is applicable in Pickaway-co.

TO REPAY RELIEF

When an indigent person is warranted over to the commissioners for sustenance his plan would be to have that person work on county highways, or any other work the county might have, in order to repay the sum of money.

The commissioners believe that by working a day on some job $1 could be repaid. Mr. Crist's plan was to allow $2 for each day. Nothing definite in the way of how much shall be paid, however, has yet been reached. If the commissioners allow $5 a month for rent for some individual that person will be required to work for the county until the $5 has been repaid.

TO WEED WILLING

One excellent feature of the plan is that persons who are receiving relief but who would not work if offered a job will be weeded out. Those who are willing to labor but have been forced to throw themselves upon the county because of failure to find jobs will also be learned.

Instead of the relief situation in Circleville and Pickaway-co be-

GREAT BLAZE HITS CHICAGO

More Than $2,000,000 Lost As Elevator and Packing House Are Burned.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Half of Chicago's fire-fighting force was battling desperately early today to subdue a monster blaze in the industrial district.

Raging for more than 12 hours, the roaring conflagration wrought damage estimated at approximately $2,000,000 and sent seven firemen to hospitals with serious injuries. Fire department officials declared they had succeeded in confining the blaze within a limited area and there was little danger of the flames spreading.

Devoured by the giant fire was the $1,000,000 Quincy Grain elevator, while the big buildings of the Omaha Packing company were doomed.

Working at feverish speed to quell the holocaust, 30 fire-fighters were overcome by smoke or hurt in falls during the night. Some dropped from exhaustion. Many, after receiving first-aid treatment, returned to the battle.

STOCKS AGAIN ARE BOOSTED

Agricultural Sales High As U. S. Steel Also Shows Increase Today.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The bull advance in stocks was resumed at a feverish pace today, with wide publicity given to reports of the formation of a powerful pool to strengthen prices of agricultural staples.

The market gave no hint of its near term trend at the opening today, which was but slightly above previous closings. The bears were prodded out of their perch shortly thereafter, however, as a storm of buying swept into the market and threw the bearish element into a virtual panic. Agricultural stocks were the center of a wild buying wave with J. I. Case shooting skyward to 41 for a gain of almost 6 points, and International Harvester spurring to 26 for a 5 point advance. Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward were higher to a lesser extent.

In the ranks of top notch pivotal leaders, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, DuPont, Allied Chemical, and a host of other favorites pushed ahead to new high ground.

MARCHERS TO EVADE STATE

Only Few Congregated At Huntington Under Doak Carter; Fear Alleviated

COLUMBUS, Aug. 5.—Danger of an invasion of Ohio by retreating bonus marchers apparently collapsed today, it was announced by Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson.

Although state highway trucks were in readiness at Bellaire and Bridgeport, ready to rush marchers across the state to prevent them from pausing to set up a camp in Ohio, comparative few of the bonus crusaders were there to be transported, Henderson said.

While it has been reported that a big crowd of marchers was waiting at Huntington, Highway Director O. W. Merrell and Ohio National Guard officials learned otherwise when they reached the West Virginia city late yesterday.

The only "army" discovered was a handful of straggling veterans, homeward bound, headed by Captain Doak Carter of Cleveland. Not enough were there to be dangerous.

ARREST OF 'LIBBY' IS EXPECTED

Libby Holman Indicted With Walker for Murder of Reynolds.

IS IN SECLUSION

Father Enroute to Winston-Salem Today.

BULLETIN

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 5.—A telegram sent to the solicitor's office today by Alfred Holman, father-attorney of Libby Holman Reynolds charged with the murder of her young millionaire husband, Zachary Smith Reynolds, indicated that the missing defendant might shortly surrender to North Carolina authorities.

BY DAVID P. SENTNER.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of young Zachary Smith Reynolds, and Broadway favorite, today was hunted on a charge of murder by authorities of three states.

Her whereabouts was still unknown to Sheriff Transou Scott, of Forsyth-co, who wishes to arrest the famous singer of "torch" songs on an indictment alleging that she "wilfully and with malice aforethought" assisted in the slaying of her 20-year-old millionaire husband. Smith was fatally wounded on the sleeping porch of his estate home after a gay party just one month ago today.

Ab Walker, closest friend of the dead heir to tobacco millions, was already lodged in the county jail here. Walker was indicted jointly with Libby on the murder charge late Thursday.

FATHER ENROUTE

Alfred Holman, father and attorney of Libby, was enroute to Winston-Salem. He was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

A report was in circulation that he would pick up his daughter on the way and surrender her to authorities here upon his arrival.

It was pointed out that such procedure would prevent the notoriety and emotional anguish expected to be felt by Mrs. Reynolds were she to give herself up to Ohio authorities and go through the public formality of waiving extradition.

Before leaving Cincinnati, the father of Mrs. Reynolds charged his daughter was being "framed," that she was resting at a resort near the Ohio city, and that he would negotiate for her surrender when he arrived here.

Officials expressed irritation at the statements made by Holman, recalling the declaration he made in a recent telegram sent to Winston-Salem authorities that Mrs. Reynolds was available whenever she was needed in the North Carolina city.

CAPITAL SOCIETY WOMAN SUICIDES

During his absence, he told police, his wife took the gun from the bed and fired a second shot into her brain.

SMITH IS FINED

Mathew Smith, Columbus taxi-driver, was lodged in the county jail Thursday after failing to pay a fine of $50 and costs assessed him by Squire Z. L. Smith at Darbyville when he was found guilty of obstructing justice.

A charge of driving a taxi cab without a chauffeurs' license was also pushed against Smith, Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell said.

A fruit or additional vegetable.
Milk for all.
Two to four times a week—

VARY THE COOKING OF SUMMER VEGETABLES

This is the season for home grown food. Gardens are displaying vegetables and fruits from nearby market gardens. Just the right hot-weather foods; and not the season, one might suppose, when the housewife is hard put to it for variety on her table. In many families, however, there may arise just that difficulty; particularly in the family that has been living on a restricted diet for many months because it can afford no better.

One way to meet the difficulty is to find new ways to serve the same old foods. Potatoes, tomatoes, corn, cabbage, beans, cucumbers, onions, egg plant, beets, green peppers, squash—how can they be made to seem different and tempting in hot weather?—especially to a family which may have to depend chiefly on just one or two of the lot?

The Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, although it recommends a short cooking time for vegetables, suggests nevertheless that a day especially on hot summer days, may come now and then when for variety's sake certain oven dishes may solve this question without too much heat or expense. Baked tomatoes, baked cucumbers, baked egg plant, baked onions, baked peppers, each with stuffing of breadcrumbs or rice or other cereal, and perhaps chopped meat or cheese—these will cook in 30 to 45 minutes in a moderate oven. There is no better way to conserve the food values of these vegetables than by baking, and the baked vegetable can be not only an attractive but a very substantial dish. It can thus furnish the needed calories without adding much to the body heat.

Another oven dish desirable now while eggs are cheap is the vegetable soufflé. This is a most attractive way, the bureau points out, to utilize left-overs of tomatoes, spinach, cauliflower, corn, asparagus, sweet potatoes, or almost any other vegetable. The soufflé is made from a foundation of seasoned vegetables pulp, mashed or finely chopped, and thickened if necessary to approximate the consistency of thick white sauce. Use 1-2 cup of the pulp to 3 eggs. To combine, stir the yolks into the vegetables pulp and then fold into the beaten whites. The mixture is baked in a slow oven until set.

A mixture of left-over vegetables also makes an attractive scalloped dish. Snap beans, carrots, turnips, squash—put two or more of these or other vegetables in a shallow baking dish, with thin white sauce to which cheese has been added, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the sauce bubbles and the crumbs are brown.

Panning is another method highly recommended by the bureau because it retains all the food values of the vegetables and is quick. Panned cabbage, for example, or panned okra, is cooked with a little fat and without water in a covered frying pan, on top of the stove, where the vegetable is in fact steamed in its own juice. Cabbage may be panned, with another variation. After cooking 5 or 10 minutes in a little fat, a teaspoon of flour may be sifted over the cabbage, a cup of milk added and the mixture stirred until thickened.

For tomatoes the variations are numerous and cucumbers can be cooked in several ways that few people ever think of. Stuffed and baked, for example, or fried, creamed, or stewed with tomatoes, they seem like a different vegetable altogether from the crisp white slices that appear in a raw salad. Tomatoes broiled on toast with bacon, baked tomatoes and ham, baked eggs in tomato cups, baked tomatoes, stuffed or not, broiled tomatoes, tomatoes stewed with celery, with cabbage, with corn, with cucumbers, tomato jelly salad, and any number of salads, with raw tomatoes in combination—that tomato list is so long that some of the variations may have slipped the mind of the cook, and she may like to be reminded of them.

Newest Event Will Create Interest In Air Races; Ohioans To Have Edge

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Ohioans will have the edge on out-of-state contestants in a new event that has been placed on the card for the National Air Races to be held here Aug. 27 to Sept. 5.

This is the Soho Mystery Race, an event sponsored by the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, and announced today by E. W. (Pop) Cleveland, veteran flyer and contest committee chairman of the 10-day aviation race classic.

There will be two divisions in the Soho race, one for planes with high speeds of 110 m. p. h. or less, the other for planes with speeds of more than 110 m. p. h. The race for the slower ships will be staged Tuesday, August 30, and the second on Thursday, Sept. 1. Both divisions will be open to men and women flyers.

The mystery race will start and finish at Cleveland Airport, scene of the National Air Races. Before taking off from the municipal field, the contestants will be handed the name of the air port at which they are to make their first stop. At that field, they will be presented with a card bearing the name of the second port, and so on. All the fields will be in Ohio. Each division will finish the same day it starts.

The pilot returning to the starting point with the cards given him by the airport managers at each of the control stops will be declared the winner. The $750 in prize money that has been posted will be divided among the first three place winners in each division.

Information collected by the flyers participating in the race for the slower planes will be of no value to those entered in the second division, since the stops will be changed before the second group takes off on its jaunt through the state.

CHILLICOTHE RATE SLASH WITHDRAWN

CHILLICOTHE, Aug. 5.—The electric light rate controversy has been ended—by the company.

The company's offer to the city's plea for lower rates was withdrawn by John B. Poston, general manager of the Southern Ohio Electric company in letters received by Chairman Harold Brown of the council utilities committee, the various other members of council and Mayor J. R. Gunning.

Poston's letter said the company's offer had merely placed it under suspicion "as to the sincerity of our motives."

"In view of the feeling of distrust on the part of some individuals, and the fact that you, as chairman of the public utilities committee, are now dissatisfied with the proposed reduced rates, it is apparently useless to further pursue negotiations," Poston's letter, addressed to Chairman Brown stated.

GUNNING IRATE

Mayor J. R. Gunning, staunch champion of the company's offer against the attacks of delegations of citizens at two recent public meetings of council at which it was discussed, deplored the turn of events that caused the withdrawal in a statement issued to the press.

Affirming his belief that the offer had been clouded by misinformation circulated by word of mouth the mayor voiced his conviction that the great majority of the people would have supported the proposal had they understood all the facts.

The company's offer, made public July 23, after six months' quiet negotiation between first the finance committee, then the utilities committee, of council, and the company, was given a first reading in council July 25.

It provided for the cancelling of the present contract which still has five years to run and the drawing of a new 10 year one. Instead of a charge of 8c per kw for the first 200 kws, as at present, the company proposed an 8c rate for the first 50 kw, with the next 50 at 6c, the next 1,400 at 4c and all over 1,500 at 2 1/2c. A saving of about $2,500 a year to the city in street lighting also was offered.

SAVING HUGE

Domestic and commercial users of more than 50 kw per month would have saved an estimated $188,000 during the course of the next five years, while the city's savings would have been about $12,500.

The proposal was attacked in council chiefly on account of the extra five years the company asked, and the fact that acceptance meant that the small consumer would have no assurance of any saving during the life of the contract.

Brooklyn Coming Fast By Drubbing Pirates In Both
End of Bill.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—With the leading Pirates beaten in their last six starts—a slump comparable to their 1921 collapse—the panic is on in the National league.

Six other clubs in the circuit still have a chance to grab the flag, with the fifth place Brooklyn club coming fastest of all. The Dodgers, who have copped eleven of their last thirteen starts, drubbed Pittsburgh twice yesterday, 7 to 4 and 6 to 5, thanks to the slugging of Francis Xavier O'Doul, who is hot after the league batting title.

With three homers and a double, O'Doul drove in three runs in each game. In the nightcap he smacked his 12th and 13th homers in the ninth and tenth innings, and also staved off defeat with two glittering catches.

Brooklyn is now only a game and a half away from third place.

Rejuvenated under the leadership of Charley Grimm, the Cubs also are set to overhaul the Pirates. Grimm made an auspicious debut as player-manager of the Bruins by hitting two doubles and a single yesterday as his men swamped the Phillies, 12 to 1, and advanced to within 3 1-2 games of Pittsburgh.

The Giants, also coming strong with four straight wins, downed the Cardinals 4 to 1 thanks to Hubbell's pitching and Ott's triple with two on.

Wally Berger's homer featured Boston's 3 to 2 victory over Cincinnati.

M'LARNIN BEATEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—James Archibald McLarnin, the one time "killer," came back to boxing last night for the first time in nearly a year and himself was almost massacred in ten rounds by a ferocious young butcher who was introduced as Lou Brouillard, the former welterweight champion.

It was Brouillard's first appearance in New York and possibly McLarnin's last. He isn't exactly a case for the wet wash people but, after what happened last night, he may have a future in the welterweight division, but it's strictly behind him. As long as Brouillard remains a welterweight, in fact, McLarnin will do well to remain a spectator.

Only three American League pitchers have won sixteen straight games. They are Walter Johnson, Joe Wood and Lefty Grove. Johnson, pitching for the Washington Senators first set the record in 1912. The same season Wood, of the Boston Red Sox tied the mark. Grove equaled Johnson's last season, missing his 17th straight when he lost a 1-0 decision to the St. Louis Browns.

made where Howard White presented his rival, nay by Robert Rooney, with a "trick" cigar, expecting Robert to smoke it. The perfect appears later in the action when the unsuspecting Robert presents it to his sweetheart's father, played by C. G. Chalfin, who is transformed into what might be called "another black crow" when it explodes in his face—the innocent perpetrator being booted off the premises by the irate parent.

Perhaps as many as three hundred children gathered at the Court House this afternoon when Director Newland made scenes there.

Several thousand people were present in the busiest center, when the big automobile wreck scene was staged yesterday. Other scenes were made out in the country around Hargus Creek. The entire cast participated in the making of these scenes.

Today will also be a busy day with the Director Newland and his cast filming scenes at the Railroad Depot, in the business section and various homes in the residential section.

Director Newland hopes to have "Pickaway - Co's Hero" completed sometime Saturday and have it Cliftona Theater next Tuesday and Wednesday, August 9th and ready for its first showing at the 10th.

Last night another capacity audience witnessed the filming of other scenes on the Cliftona stage.

The "shooting" of the scenes on the stage is done in full view of the audience and has proven entertaining and interesting and is decidedly different from what one would expect.

Director Newland is delighted with the work of the cast.

coming better during the summer, as expected, it is gradually growing worse it has been learned. The commissioners have paid out nearly $1,500 in poor relief since the first of the year and each Monday their most trying business is that of relief. Each week more families are warranted over to the county dads with a result that before long the relief fund is going to be exhausted.

FUNDS ARE LOW

With families requiring aid in the summer time when they should be able to find some labor, it is highly possible that the coming winter will be very difficult. Funds of relief agencies are exceedingly low and face possibility of complete exhaustion of funds.

FIND BOMB IN CLOTHES
VANCOUVER, B. C. — Old clothes collectors for church rummage sale were startled here when they unrolled a bundle of garments and found a "potato masher" bomb—the kind on a long handle, discarded in the early stages of the world war. It was turned over to police who destroyed the deadly missile.

made where Howard White presented his rival, played by Robert Rooney, with a "trick" cigar, expecting Robert to smoke it. The perfect appears later in the action when the unsuspecting Robert presents it to his sweetheart's father, played by C. G. Chaffin, who is transformed into what might be called "another black crow" when it explodes in his face, the innocent perpetrator being booted off the premises by the irate parent.

Perhaps as many as three hundred children gathered at the Court House this afternoon when Director Newland made scenes there.

Several thousand people were present in the busiest center, when the big automobile wreck scene was staged yesterday. Other scenes were made out in the country around Hargus Creek. The entire cast participated in the making of these scenes.

Today will also be a busy day with the Director Newland and his cast filming scenes at the Railroad Depot, in the business section and various homes in the residential section.

Director Newland hopes to have "Pickaway - Co's Hero" completed sometime Saturday and have it Cliftona Theater next Tuesday and Wednesday, August 9th and ready for its first showing at the 10th.

Last night another capacity audience witnessed the filming of other scenes on the Cliftona stage.

The "shooting" of the scenes on the stage is done in full view of the audience and has proven entertaining and interesting and is decidedly different from what one would expect.

Director Newland is delighted with the work of the cast.

SANSEVERO TURNS BARBER
DENVER—Joseph P. Sansivero, North Denver gang chief, known as "Denver's public enemy No. 1," has turned to "the barber" trade, which he forsook 15 years for the betterpaying liquor business. Roma has been designated official barber at the Denver county jail.

DENVER—A full-grown deer, whose swimming lessons had apparently been neglected, was recently saved from drowning in Berkeley Park lake here. Two life guards lassoed the deer and dragged it into a boat.

RETOUR COST HIM $5
PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Cost James Gallagher, of New York, $5 more for his opinion as to whether or not he was guilty of violating a motor law. "It's a shame," asserted Gallagher to the judge when fined $5. The judge added $5 more to the original fine.

CANTON, O.—Among the angler tales told here is the one by Fred J. Held, that when he was casting on Frits Lake, near here, he hooked a full-grown cat, which had snapped at the fly as the line curled out over the water.

Milder, too"

That's what one smoker is telling another . . . And it's another way of saying that Chesterfields are made from better-tasting, milder tobaccos. The right kinds of Turkish and Domestic are blended and CROSS-Blended in Chesterfield. They come out milder and TASTE BETTER than you'll ever believe—till you try them!

VARY THE COOKING OF SUMMER VEGETABLES

This is the season for home grown food. Home gardens are displaying vegetables and fruits from nearby market gardens. Just from the garden, and the right hot-weather foods, and not the season, one might suppose, when the housewife is hard put to it for variety on her table. In many families, however, there may arise just that difficulty; particularly in the family that has been living on a restricted diet for many months because it can afford no better.

One way to meet the difficulty is to find new ways to serve the same old foods. Potatoes, tomatoes, corn, cabbage, beans, peas, green onions, egg plant, beets, green peppers, squash—how can they be made to seem different and tempting in hot weather?—especially to a family which may have to depend chiefly on just one or two of the lot?

The Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, although it recommends short cooking time for vegetables, suggests nevertheless that a day especially on hot summer days, may come now and then when for variety's sake certain oven dishes may solve this question without too much heat or expense. Baked tomatoes, baked cucumbers, baked egg plant, baked onions, baked peppers, each with stuffing of bread crumbs or rice or other cereal, and perhaps chopped meat or cheese—these will cook in 30 to 45 minutes in a moderate oven. There is no better way to conserve the food values of these vegetables than by baking, and the baked vegetable can be not only an attractive but a very substantial dish. It can thus furnish the needed calories without adding much to the body heat.

Another oven dish desirable now while eggs are cheap is the vegetable soufflé. This is a most attractive way, the bureau points out, to utilize left-overs of tomatoes, spinach, cauliflower, corn, asparagus, sweet potatoes, or almost any other vegetable. The soufflé is made from a foundation of seasoned vegetables pulp, mashed or finely chopped, and thickened if necessary to approximate the consistency of thick white sauce. Use 1-2 cup of the pulp to 3 eggs. To combine, stir the yolks into the vegetables pulp and then fold into the beaten whites. The mixture is baked in a slow oven until set.

A mixture of left-over vegetables also makes an attractive scalloped dish. Snap beans, carrots, turnips, squash—put two or more of these or other vegetables in a shallow baking dish, with thin white sauce to which cheese has been added, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the sauce bubbles and the crumbs are brown.

Panning is another method highly recommended by the bureau because it retains all the food values of the vegetables and is quick. Panned cabbage, for example, or panned okra, is cooked with a little fat and without water in a covered frying pan, on top of the stove, where the vegetable is in fact steamed in its own juice. Cabbage may be panned, with another variation. After cooking 5 or 10 minutes in a little fat, a teaspoon of flour may be sifted over the cabbage, a cup of milk added and the mixture stirred until thickened.

For tomatoes the variations are numerous and cucumbers can be cooked in several ways that few people ever think of. Stuffed and baked, for example, or fried, creamed, or stewed with tomatoes, they seem like a different vegetable altogether from the crisp white slices that appear in a raw salad. Tomatoes broiled on toast with bacon, baked tomatoes and ham, baked eggs in tomato cups, broiled tomatoes, tomatoes stewed with celery, with cabbage, with corn, with cucumbers, tomato jelly salad, and any number of salads, with raw tomatoes in combination—that tomato list is so long that some of the variations may have slipped the mind of the cook, and she may like to be reminded of them.

FRIED CUCUMBERS

4 medium-sized cucumbers.
1 egg.

STUFFED EGG PLANT

1 large eggplant.
4 tablespoons melted butter or other fat.
1-2 cups bread crumbs.
1 small onion, finely chopped.
1 cup cooked string beans, peas, or other left-over vegetables.
1 teaspoon salt.
Pepper.
Wash and cut the eggplant in half lengthwise. Remove as much of the white portion as possible without breaking the shell, cut the pulp into small pieces, cook in a small quantity of hot water for 10 minutes, or until tender, and drain. To the melted fat add the bread crumbs, stir until well mixed, and reserve half of the crumbs for the top. To the remaining crumbs add the other ingredients and the eggplant pulp, mix thoroughly, pile lightly into the eggplant shells, sprinkle the top with crumbs, place in shallow baking dish, pour a few tablespoons of hot water around the shells to keep them from sticking, and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve in the baking dish.

Salt.
Pepper.

Cover the ham with slices of tomatoes; season with salt and pepper, and sugar if desired, sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over the tomatoes, cover, and cook for 1 to 1 hour in a moderate oven. When the ham is tender, remove the top of the baking dish and allow the bread crumbs to brown. Garnish with chopped parsley and serve from the dish.

OKRA, TOMATOES, and RICE

1 pint sliced okra.
4 or 5 large tomatoes, or 1 quart canned tomatoes.
1 large green pepper.
1 onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-2 pint water (if needed).
Boiled rice.
Cook together all of the ingredients except the rice, for about 1-2 hour, or until fairly thick. Serve around a mound of boiled rice which has been cooked so as to be fluffy and dry with distinct grains.
For variation, minced parsley, chopped celery, or sweet corn cut from the cob may be added to this mixture.

Newest Event Will Create Interest In Air Races; Ohioans To Have Edge

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Ohioans will have the edge on out-of-state contestants in a new event that has been placed on the card for the National Air Races to be held here Aug. 27 to Sept. 5.

This is the Solio Mystery Race, an event sponsored by the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, and announced today by E. W. (Pop) Cleveland, veteran flyer and contest committee chairman of the 10-day aviation race classic.

There will be two divisions in the Solio race, one for planes with high speeds of 110 m. p. h. or less, the other for planes with speeds of more than 110 m. p. h. The race for the slower ships will be staged Tuesday, August 30, and the second on Thursday, Sept. 1. Both divisions will be open to men and women flyers.

The mystery race will start and finish at Cleveland Airport, scene of the National Air Races. Before taking off from the municipal field, the contestants will be handed the name of the air port at which they are to make their first stop. At that field, they will be presented with a card bearing the name of the second port, and so on. Each division will finish the same day it starts.

The pilot returning to the starting point with the cards given him by the airport managers at each of the control stops will be declared the winner. The $750 in prize money that has been posted will be divided among the first three place winners in each division.

Information collected by the flyers participating in the race for the slower planes will be of no value to those entered in the second division, since the stops will be changed before the second group takes off on its jaunt through the state.

STATE PAY

salaries' up to $1,000, 10 per cent on the amount between $1,000 and $5,000, and 15 per cent on all salary cuts above $5,000. The senate committee proposed a slightly different cut on amounts over $5,000 but the differences are expected to be ironed out in committee conferences.

The senate committee proposed that salaries of members of the board of elections in all counties in the state be returned to the 1926 basis with a maximum of $1,800. The present maximum is $4,200. It was also proposed to cut the pay of judges and clerks in precincts from the present scale of $10 and $8 a day to $5 a day.

REDUCE PRECINCTS

Approximately $300,000 more could be saved, according to Secretary of State Clarence Brown, if the number of the precincts in Ohio were reduced from approximately 8,700 to 7,500. Brown also suggested elimination of election of delegates to state conventions in presidential years.

President George W. Rightmire, of Ohio State university, though saying that employees at the school had already taken cuts totaling 12 per cent, declared they would accept further cuts.

"If the salary cut is necessary," said Rightmire, "Give us the lump sum and we will be glad to distribute it in accordance with our own surveys."

E. B. Bryan, president of Ohio University at Athens, President J. O. Engleman, of Kent State College, Lysle S. Evans, trustee of Miami University at Oxford, and representatives of Wilberforce University at Xenia conferred with President Rightmire.

Meanwhile, the State Employees' Association agreed to abandon efforts to obtain the five day week plan if the graduated cuts were made.

TELLS OF SCENE

During the night of the hectic party at the Reynolds home on the night of July 5, Libby put her arms about Ab. down at the boat-house, Walker testified.

"Smith doesn't love me," Libby

ARREST EXPECTED

he would be satisfied if Mrs. Reynolds accompanied her father to Winston-Salem today and surrendered.

The sheriff dispatched a telegram to Sheriff A. Z. Butterfield, of Hamilton-co, Ohio, and another to Chief Police Inspector John O'Brien, of New York City, asking for the immediate arrest of Libby.

Mrs. Reynolds had previously been staying at the home of relatives in Hamilton-co and she was also unofficially reported to Sheriff Scott as being in New York.

As soon as Mrs. Reynolds is arrested and brought back to Winston-Salem, she will be put in the same jail holding Walker.

Under the legal procedure of North Carolina, defendants charged with first degree murder are not generally permitted freedom under bail.

It is likely that both prisoners will be held incommunicado unless habeas corpus proceedings are instituted by their counsel.

In this event, the court hearing on the writ would equal a major trial inasmuch as the evidence upon which the defendants are held would be presented by the state's attorney.

EVIDENCE MYSTERY

The new evidence in connection with the Reynolds death gathered by Sheriff Scott, the one-man investigating force of the county, has not yet been officially revealed.

This fresh evidence, in addition to the testimony given by the defendants and guests at the tragic party before a coroner's jury, has been termed "startling" by Sheriff Scott.

It includes statements made by persons unheard at the inquest and the discovery of several new "clues" within the post-party shooting occurred.

Ab. Walker, 19-year-old son of a wealthy real estate dealer, is one of the most popular members of the Winston-Salem younger social set.

He has a reputation of being a high-speed automobile driver, a consistent drinker, and a great success with the ladies.

Walker had known Smith, one year his senior, since childhood and they were inseparable chums. Walker accompanied him on his prolonged courtship of Libby, when Smith followed the husky-voiced singer on tour through a dozen cities, Walker was generally with him.

This Damon-and-Pythias relationship between Ab. and Smith culminated into the employment of Walker as secretary to the heir to $15,000,000, the commission being given only a few days before the shooting.

Ab. in his hesitant testimony before the coroner's jury which scooped an earlier verdict of suicide, indicated the confidence and trust in which he was held by Smith.

NEW USE FOR AUTOS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Ranchers in eastern Utah have discovered a new use for old automobiles. New automobiles, gasoline and oil being prohibitive in cost to many ranchers, they have removed the engines from their old cars, attached wagon tongues, and converted the automobiles into rubber-tired carriages.

SIX IN COTTAGE

There were only six known persons in "The Cottage" when the shot was fired.

They were the victim, Libby, Ab. Walker, noted tragedienne of Greek plays, Mrs. "Babe" Vaught, and a young tutor who had been coaching Smith in mathematics preparatory to his taking examinations for entrance to the Guggenheim Aeronautical school at New York university.

Libby said that she did not remember a thing that occurred since the night afterwards, except for a flash of memory in which she saw Smith standing beside the bed on the sleeping porch with a gun held to his head.

WENT TO PORCH

F. E. Fletcher, the night watchman on the estate, said Libby returned at 12:30 a. m., that Walker joined her somewhere and that they walked up the path toward the house where Smith sat on the porch waiting.

Libby was walking with a short step and then a long step, according to the night watchman.

Smith, without a word took Libby by the arm and led her inside the house.

Walker timed the incident as an hour earlier than that given by the night watchman. The latter insisted it was 12:30 a. m. because his duties called for hourly rounds and he noted the time.

It was within half-an-hour, that Fletcher heard a shot. He said he attributed the shot at the time to his young master and his friends engaging in a nocturnal bit of target practice, a habit in which they frequently indulged.

What happened between 12:30 and 1:00 a. m. has never been satisfactorily explained to authorities.

WHISPERED INTO HIS EAR, SAID WALKER

"She was very tight," he added. Young Reynolds saw this scene and took the matter up with his Broadway bride.

They came over to Walker. "I didn't kiss you, did I?" Libby asked Ab. the latter testified.

And Walker said he replied: "Of course not."

Then Walker testified his chum said to him later in the pantry (it was here the drinking ingredients were kept):

"I want you to get it straight that I wasn't accusing you of anything."

Libby was in her bathing suit during the evening, over the suit she wore a pajama ensemble including a sweater. She wore slippers.

Walker was also in his bathing suit.

Other witnesses told how Mrs. Reynolds was missing from the party for from two to three hours.

"Peaches" Browning Reduces

The Girl Wife of New York's Famous "Daddy" Tells the Little Details of How She Dieted Herself Right Out of the "Roly-Poly" Class of Young Matrons.

"Peaches" Browning dropped thirty-five pounds in one year. She got tired of having newspaper men refer to her as the "shabby" young wife of Edward W. Browning, New York's most famous "Daddy." But when ever she the former Frances Heenan consulted about the matter prescribed heavy gymnasium work. "Peaches" couldn't see this, so she started dieting. An orange, or a glass of orange juice and black coffee, or a glass of tomato juice, or grapefruit juice, or a glass of milk, or a glass of coffee, or tea, or a few slices of white toast, unuttered. Dinner was the big meal of the day and consisted of a clear soup, roast meat, baked potato, lettuce salad and a fruit dessert. Pies, cakes, and ice cream were off her menu. She never lost more than three ounces a day. But it counted up in the end. If you don't believe it, just glance at the pictures of "Peaches" shown above. Before and after might well be the caption for that layout! "Peaches" now says she feels better than she ever has before. She's fit for the front line of a Broadway musical show, or to model for a fashionable gown shop. Though she didn't go in for heavy athletics she found that light calisthenics greatly aided her quest for slimmness. Here's her measurements: height, 5 feet, seven inches; waist, 28 inches; hips, 36 inches; ankles, 8 inches; wrist, 6 inches and neck, 13 inches. Don't sound like chubby "Peaches" at all, does it?

A Canadian Blunder

CANADA will regret it if she goes through with the proposal to buy more Welsh coal if England buys more dominion lumber. Only her lumber industry can benefit from such an anti-American act and even that might suffer if its best customer, the United States, should retaliate through an embargo on Canadian lumber.

The plan strikes at the United States. Last year Canada imported 2,903,000 tons of anthracite, of which Pennsylvania supplied 1,966,000 tons and Wales 871,000 tons. The proposed Canadian tariff discriminating against Pennsylvania coal would reduce the Canadian consumption of that product means a business loss of $3,800,000. And if the St. Lawrence river were navigable the year around the loss would be even greater.

This is not Pennsylvania's private fight. Rob that state's anthracite industry of nearly four millions a year and every industry in the United States from agriculture to the cinema will feel it.

Canada has other objections to the scheme. The dominion government would lose considerable revenue and Nova Scotia's bituminous industry would be ruined by greater competition from cheap Welsh anthracite.

Wales may be in dire need of bigger markets for its coal and Canada undoubtedly wants to export more lumber, but Pennsylvania in anthracite is just as much in need of an expanded market and American business in general needs a prosperous anthracite industry. A word to the wise is sufficient.

State Sales Taxes

STATE legislators often follow in the footsteps of congress but in the case of the sales tax that which has been rejected by congress is being adopted by one state after another.

In perhaps half the states there is a trend toward a modified sales tax, although this method of emergency taxation was being attacked tooth and nail by more than half the states in Washington but a few weeks ago. Is it possible that congressmen and state lawmakers do not speak for the same people?

The states are taxing everything from butter to dog racing and from electricity to restaurant meals. Each has its budget balancing problem, as congress did and most of them will succeed in balancing them on theory only, even as congress did. Of all the ladders to an actual treasury surplus the sales tax seems most dependable to state lawmakers.

The sales tax may be more popular as a state measure than as a federal levy because it has been advanced in the states for the relief of overburdened real estate and personal property. It would find favor with every person for whom it effected a property tax reduction or a reduction in rent.

On the question of the sales tax the national and state governments may be as far apart as the poles but they have been as one on the matter of economy. No state government has brought expenditures down to its required revenue; all have sought to bring the revenue up to the swollen level of expenditures.

Starting the Campaign

THE question, uppermost in many minds, when will the presidential campaign start? suggests another question, When does a presidential campaign start?

With the throwing of the first hat into the ring? When the president chooses to run? When the convention adopt their platform and select their tickets? With the official notification of the nominees? Or is the starting gun the first campaign speech in the fall?

Some contend that the campaign of 1932 started a year or more ago. Others hold that it began with Governor Roosevelt's acceptance speech on the closing day of the Democratic convention. For President Hoover and his managers it will officially open on August 11, when the president will be formally notified of his nomination.

Wouldn't it be accurate to view what has already happened of a campaign nature as the campaign overture and date the campaign proper from the first stumping tour, whether it be by radio, plane or train? The voters haven't warmed up to it yet and until popular excitement has been aroused a campaign does not justify the name.

The "They're off" the party managers and candidates are cupping their ears for, is from the throats of the voters, and it is music to their ears when it is spontaneous and simultaneous with the launching of their favorites.

Another difference between death and taxes is that half-baked officials can't make death any worse.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

After a week or two at the Ritz they moved to a large apartment in the Boulevard des Capucines, near "The Arch of Triumph." Here Lily Lou had a small room of her own, and the use of the piano when Nahman was not using it, which was not often.

It was a place of gilt, spindle legged furniture, pale murals, immense cut-glass chandeliers, and many servants. Lily Lou never got them quite straight, and Nahman didn't even try to. She had rented them with the apartment. What little managing there was was done by the rather silent Susanne. Silent with Lily Lou and Nahman, loquacious with the servants. Lily Lou envied her her gift of languages.

"All Swiss speak many languages," Susanne said. Lily Lou wished she had been born in Switzerland, instead of Woodlake. She knew now that Gwin had been right, her French was terrible. She couldn't understand the French, and the French could not understand her. Nahman, born in Philadelphia, educated in the public schools there some thirty-five years before, spoke French like a native.

There were times when Lily Lou thought wistfully of Gwin and Maxine, and even Mrs. Manchester and Wanda Pillsbury and the artists. None had bothered to write. Probably they cared not a thing about her, but now that they were distant they seemed nearer to her than Nahman would ever bother to be.

She wouldn't let herself think of Woodlake, and the folks, and the old dog, Shep.

Whenever she did she cried, and it upset Nahman to see her red-eyed and depressed. If there was to be any temperance, any display of feeling, it was to be done by Nahman herself. So Lily Lou, mindful of her own good, kept her thoughts from home as much as she could, and put her whole heart into the tasks that Nahman assigned her.

Nahman was an inspired teacher. But she was an indifferent and irregular one. Sometimes there was a two hour lesson every day for two days. Then not another for a week.

Somehow the days slipped by. Paris wakes early, and so did Lily Lou. There would be the rattle of the milk wagons and garbage carts over the cobbles, the shrill cries of the drivers. Bang, crash, bang, and a high pitched exchange of French greetings and curses. Then the serech of the iron shutters being raised across the way. The beginnings of traffic. The acid smell of burnt coffee from the little grocery on the corner. Presently Leontine would come with coffee and a hard little roll on a tray.

Practicing in half hour stretches. Reading. Studying. Bedtime again. The days slipped by.

She even got through Christmas, with Christmas letters from home, and a box of homemade fruit cake from her mother. She cried over that.

She learned to distinguish the servants. Leontine was the tall one with the fancy cap with the streamers. She brought the coffee every morning. Albert was the butler. The gaunt, stooped man with the walrus whiskers was Le Chef. If he had another name it was never spoken. The servants spoke of him

reverently—Le Chef. Or, Monsieur le Chef.

"I ought to go sightseeing. I certainly ought to see Paris," Lily Lou told herself, but she had no desire to go anywhere. She went on a few sightseeing tours, but did not enjoy them. The tourists frightened her. She preferred to be alone to the Louvre. She was beginning to tire quickly now. She'd sit on the stone benches, sometimes staring at a painting, sometimes looking down at her own tired feet. Attendants came to know her, to speculate about her—the sad, pretty young American—

Something must have happened to Nahman's opera plans. She said nothing about them. Came in one day with a tale of having signed up for concerts in Vienna.

Lily Lou worked with her. Played accompaniments. Nahman worked herself into a frenzy. This wasn't right. She couldn't get that note. . . . cursed crazy program. . . .

But Lily Lou almost despaired, just listening to her. How would she ever grasp the technique that was Nahman's? How would she ever rise to her heights? And how would she ever perfect her languages, to be able to sing in French, in Italian, in German, as Nahman did. . . .

They whisked off to Vienna on a blustering March day when the sun shone palely, and the dirty winter's snow melted slowly on the shady sides of streets. Vienna was thrilling from the first. There was the fun of sitting in a box at Nahman's first concert, wearing a string of Nahman's pearls and a Paris gown of dead white lace, a delayed Christmas present, and one of Nahman's ermine wraps, shawl-like, about her

There was a supper at the apartment afterward, and a gay company of singers and artists who flattered her when she sang for them.

The next day Nahman went off to Berlin, for what she said was to be a brief visit with friends. Susanne went with her. Lily Lou began to worry. She felt that her time was near, regretted that she had not asked Madame Nahman about doctors, hospitals. . . . Suppose that when they were all away . . . and she, not knowing any German. . . .

"It won't happen—not for weeks yet, I'm just being morbid. How Bess would laugh at me for being scared!" she thought, waking terrified and pain racked one windy March night.

She turned on all the lights for comfort. She walked out to the hall to look at the telephone. It was right there. She could call anyone. Except that nobody would understand her.

She waited another hour. Then, sobbing, and half out of her mind with fear, she rang the bell for the servants.

Rang and rang, and rang. She could hear the bell echoing through the house.

Presently the door opened. She saw a little man in a nightshirt and peaked cap, and behind him a tight little group of huddled, frightened women.

"Oh, help me! Help me!" she cried, not caring, not knowing that they knew no English.

The frightened circle closed around her. The man with the nightshirt and tattered cap bent over her.

Trachoma, Often Due to Unsanitary Living, a Highly Contagious Disease

This Stubborn Inflammation of the Eyelids Is So Easily Spread to Others by Infection That It Is a Serious Menace to Humanity, Requiring Great Preventive Care.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

STUBBORN inflammation of the eyelids, usually spoken of as "granulated eyelids," is not at all uncommon, and there is one form of this disorder, called "trachoma," which is contagious.

Trachoma is found in persons dwelling under unsanitary conditions. It is prevalent in China, Japan, Egypt and Russia, is seen in the southern and midwestern parts of this country, and is very common among American Indians. Since the disease is highly contagious, all immigrants are carefully examined for it before they are permitted to enter this country.

Trachoma begins with a mild itching and burning of the eyes. The eyes water and the afflicted person believes there is some foreign substance in the eye. Indeed in many cases the disturbance follows exposure to dust, sand or wind. As the disease progresses the eyelids become red and thickened. Sunshine, bright lights and exposure to wind produce intense pain.

If the condition is not treated a cloudiness forms over the eyeball that interferes with the vision. Scars that form on the inner edge of the lids pull the edges of the lids inward and cause the eyelashes to rub and scratch the eyeball. This is extremely painful.

Infection is quickly spread from one individual to another, carried on fingers, handkerchiefs or towels, or by direct contact with discharges from an infected eye. Persons suffering from trachoma must protect others by being extremely careful about the discharges from their eyes, and they should sleep alone.

Bed clothing and linens used by infected persons should be kept separately and thoroughly sterilized before being used by other members of the family. A safe plan is to burn or boil all handkerchiefs and all linens that have been used on infected eyes. Children afflicted with trachoma should not be permitted to attend school until cured.

The disease does not occur where hygiene, sanitation, fresh air and sunlight prevail. Good food, personal cleanliness, proper education and training in the care of the eyes will help to prevent this highly contagious and serious menace to humanity.

Too often the symptoms of trachoma are looked upon merely as due to a passing irritation or cold, and although home remedies fail, medical advice is delayed until the disease has reached a serious stage. This is too bad, because many cases of neglected trachoma result in partial or complete blindness.

If you have granulated eyelids or chronic sore eyes, consult with your physician. Bear in mind that neglect is dangerous, and that trachoma can be cured only by persistent and faithful medical attention.

Answers to Health Queries

H. L. S. Q.—What should a woman aged 45, 5 feet 6½ inches tall, weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 149 pounds. This is the average weight for a woman of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

L. E. F. Q.—What do you advise for scars left by pimples?

A.—To make the scars less noticeable, apply hot and cold compresses alternately for ten minutes night and morning. X-ray is also helpful.

Did You Ever Stop To Think—

George B. Dolliver, editor of the Battle Creek, Mich., Moon-Journal, says: "That the newspaper which is placed at your door is a chapter in world history."

Future generations will study in their text-books the events of 1932 and will find a resume of these events highly interesting. But to you who today read this history-in-the-making, the events are but a part of what you call "the news."

Geography matters little. There are few corners in this world so remote that what happens there today is not communicated to you within a few hours at the most—often within a few minutes. Your fathers had to wait days often for news from Europe, months for news from more distant lands, but today you have the day's news of the whole world with your meals.

For the price of a postage stamp you receive what may have cost press associations thousands of dollars to procure and, in addition, the news of your own town or city, your own country, your own state; pictures sent by wire; fiction worthy of a magazine; features galore.

Despite depression and every thing else, it's a great age to be living in.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

Bob Lee, ex-mall pilot, and his talkative partner, "Silent" Sims, own a rich gold mine called "The Golden Star," which has the reputation of being hockdood. None of its owners has ever been able to get to the mint any of the gold it yields. A mine, known as "The Black Hawk," no flies a black plane and mysteriously appears and disappears seems associated with the disasters that overtake the mine. Bob, who came into possession of the mine when his uncle, Richard Cavanaugh, weared of the struggle, is determined to break the hood on the mine and run down the Black Hawk. This is the situation as the first chapter "Pirates of the Air" unfolds at the Cliftona Theatre today and Saturday.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

After a week or two at the Ritz they moved to a large apartment in the Boulevard Housman, out near "The Arch of Triumph." Here Lily Lou had a small room of her own, and the use of the piano when Nahman was not using it, which was not often.

It was a place of gilt, spindle-legged furniture, pale murals, immense cut-glass chandeliers, and many servants. Lily Lou never got them quite straight, and Nahman didn't even try to. She had rented them with the apartment. What little managing there was was done by the rather silent Susanne. Silent with Lily Lou and Nahman, loquacious with the servants. Lily Lou envied her her gift of languages.

"All Swiss speak many languages," Susanne said. Lily Lou wished she had been born in Switzerland, instead of Woodlake. She knew now that Gwin had been right, her French was terrible. She couldn't understand the French, and the French could not understand her. Nahman, born in Philadelphia, educated in the public schools there some thirty-five years before, spoke French like a native.

There were times when Lily Lou thought wistfully of Gwin and Maxine, and even Mrs. Manchester and Wanda Pillsbury and the artists. None had bothered to write. Probably they cared not a thing about her, but now that they were distant they seemed nearer to her than Nahman would ever bother to be.

She wouldn't let herself think of Woodlake, and the folks, and the old dog, Shep.

Whenever she did she cried, and it upset Nahman to see her red-eyed and depressed. If there was to be any temperance, any display of feeling, it was to be done by Nahman herself. So Lily Lou, mindful of her own good, kept her thoughts from home as much as she could, and put her whole heart into the tasks that Nahman assigned her.

Nahman was an inspired teacher. But she was an indifferent and irregular one. Sometimes there was a two hour lesson every day for two days. Then not another for a week.

Somewhere the days slipped by. Paris wakes early, and so did Lily Lou. There would be the rattle of the milk wagons and garbage carts over the cobbles, the shrill cries of the drivers. Bang, crash, bang, and a high pitched exchange of French greetings and curses. Then the screech of the iron shutters being raised across the way. The beginnings of traffic. The aerial smell of burnt coffee from the little grocery on the corner. Presently Leontine would come with coffee and a hard little roll on a tray.

Practicing in half hour stretches. Reading. Studying. Bedtime again. The days slipped by.

She even got through Christmas, with Christmas letters from home, and a box of homemade fruit cake from her mother. She cried over that.

She learned to distinguish the servants. Leontine was the tall one with the fancy cap with the streamers. She brought the coffee every morning. Albert was the butler. The gaunt, stooped man with the walrus whiskers was Le Chef. If he had another name it was never spoken. The servants spoke of him

Lily Lou worked with her. Played accompaniments. Nahman worked herself into a frenzy.

reverently—Le Chef. Or, Monsieur le Chef.

"I ought to go sightseeing. I certainly ought to see Paris," Lily Lou told herself, but she had no desire to go anywhere. She went on a few sightseeing tours, but did not enjoy them. The tourists frightened her. She preferred to go alone to the Louvre. She was beginning to tire quickly now. She'd sit on the stone benches, sometimes staring at a painting, sometimes looking down at her own tired feet. Attendants came to know her, to speculate about her—the sad, pretty young American—

Something must have happened to Nahman's opera plans. She said nothing about them. Came in one day with a tale of having signed up for concerts in Vienna.

Lily Lou worked with her. Played accompaniments. Nahman worked herself into a frenzy. This wasn't right. . . . she couldn't get that note . . . cursed crazy program.

But Lily Lou almost despaired, just listening to her. How would she ever grasp the technique that was Nahman's? How would she ever rise to her heights? And how would she ever perfect her languages, to be able to sing in French, in Italian, in German, as Nahman did . . .

They whisked off to Vienna on a blustering March day when the sun shone palely, and the dirty winter's snow melted slowly on the shady sides of streets.

Vienna was thrilling from the first. There was the fun of sitting in a box at Nahman's first concert, wearing a string of Nahman's pearls and a Paris gown of dead white lace, a delayed Christmas present, and one of Nahman's ermine wraps shawl-like, about her

Trachoma, Often Due to Unsanitary Living, a Highly Contagious Disease

This Stubborn Inflammation of the Eyelids Is So Easily Spread to Others by Infection That It Is a Serious Menace to Humanity, Requiring Great Preventive Care.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

STUBBORN inflammation of the eyelids, usually spoken of as "granulated eyelids," is not at all uncommon, and there is one form of this disorder, called "trachoma," which is highly contagious.

Trachoma is found in persons dwelling under unsanitary conditions. It is prevalent in China, Japan, Egypt and Russia, is seen in the southern and midwestern parts of this country, and is very common among American Indians. Since the disease is highly contagious, all immigrants are carefully examined for it before they are permitted to enter this country.

Trachoma begins with a mild itching and burning of the eyes. The eyes water and the afflicted person believes there is some foreign substance in the eye. Indeed in many cases the disturbance follows exposure to dust, sand or wind. As the disease progresses the eyelids become red and thickened. Sunshine, bright lights and exposure to wind produce intense pain.

If the condition is not treated a cloudiness forms over the eyeball that interferes with the vision. Scars that form on the inner edge of the lids pull the edges of the lids inward and cause the eyelashes to rub and scratch the eyeball. This is extremely painful.

Infection is quickly spread from one individual to another, carried on fingers, handkerchiefs or towels, or by direct contact with discharges from an infected eye. Persons suffering from trachoma must protect others by being extremely careful about the discharges from their eyes, and they should sleep alone.

Bed clothing and linens used by infected persons should be kept separately and thoroughly sterilized before being used by other members of the family. A safe plan is to burn or boil all handkerchiefs and all linens that have been used on infected eyes. Children afflicted with trachoma should not be permitted to attend school until cured.

The disease does not occur where hygiene, sanitation, fresh air and sunlight prevail. Good food, personal cleanliness, proper education and training in the care of the eyes will help to prevent this highly contagious and serious menace to humanity.

Too often the symptoms of trachoma are looked upon merely as due to a passing irritation or cold, and although home remedies fail, medical advice is delayed until the disease has reached a serious stage. This is too bad, because many cases of neglected trachoma result in partial or complete blindness.

If you have granulated eyelids or chronic sore eyes, consult with your physician. Bear in mind that neglect is dangerous, and that trachoma can be cured only by persistent and faithful medical attention.

Answers to Health Queries

H. L. S. Q.—What should a woman aged 45, 5 feet 6½ inches tall, weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 149 pounds. This is the average weight for a woman of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance.

L. E. F. Q.—What do you advise for scars left by pimples?

A.—To make the scars less noticeable, apply hot and cold compresses alternately for ten minutes night and morning. X-ray is also helpful.

Did You Ever Stop To Think—
George B. Doherty, editor of the Battle Creek, Mich. Moon-Journal, says:

"That the newspaper which is placed at your door is a chapter in world history.

Future generations will study in their text-books the events of 1932 and will find a resume of these events highly interesting. But to you who today read this history-in-the-making, the events are but a part of what you call 'the news'."

Geography matters little. There are few corners in this world so remote that what happens there today is not communicated to you within a few hours at the most—often within a few minutes.

Your fathers had to wait days often for news from Europe, months for news from more distant lands, but today you have the day's news of the whole world with your meals.

For the cost of a postage stamp you receive what may have cost previously thousands of dollars to receive and, in addition, the news is your own town or city, your own country, your own state; pictures sent by wire fiction worthy of a magazine; features galore. Despite depression and every thing else it's a great age to be living in—

Office workers may probably have some yesterday find extra work and will lack time to make mistakes in handling important details. It is a foreboding important details. Keeping the mind on the thing at hand should be the object of today.

Mar. center in the sign Capricorn will cause people to assert themselves as their homes for the next five weeks much instability and outbreaks of temper will take place. There will be an inclination to rebel against authority. Persons born between the 8th and 17th of July will feel these influences very strongly. The temper is likely to be hasty, causing many regrets. This is not an auspicious time to be over-confident and egotistic. This aspect does not conduce to domestic happiness, nor does it favor health, unless self-control is practiced and contention avoided.

Care should be used in driving, as there is an inclination to be too venturesome. Surgeons operating tonight will need a level head.

The Seers forecast that unfavorable discussions will take place to-day relative to taxation. A martial spirit will prevail in Washington, and settlement will prove difficult. Government officials may wrangle over fiscal problems.

A wise suggestion today would be to avoid all peculiarities of behavior.

Children born on this day will be unsettled and restless. They should be developed to overcome doing too many things at a time.

But not for long. We arrive in Arizona tomorrow. Need I say more. Our next letter will probably originate near Tucson, Arizona, and until then, so long.

KIRWIN VISITS 'JACK' GARNER'S HOME TOWN ON TRIP THRU WEST

Wonders If Train Will Ever Get Through Texas as He Journeys Toward Los Angeles; Describes Crossing of Mississippi.

By PAT J. KIRWIN

Enroute to Los Angeles aboard the Sunset Limited. About 488 miles from El Paso, Texas.

Hello Everybody:

We're on the wires again and one more speaking from Texas. Yes, I'm just wondering whether or not we will ever leave this great lone-star state that Sam Houston made famous.

I just discovered that we have traveled 1795 miles to this point and that it will take as long to go through Texas, as the time required to go from Cincinnati to New Orleans, La. This largest state in the union might be picturesque if the scenery would change each hundred miles, but we've been riding since 7 a. m. today, and the scene has been prairies, forests, a few cotton fields and cactus plants scattered here and there.

MERCURY AT 105

The temperature has not gone below the 105 mark and this together with the "never-changing" setting is making the day's journey a very tiresome one. We are settled in a beautifully-furnished observation car and possibly if the scene were to change to some pleasant setting, we might forget the heat and become enraptured in this part of the historical southland. But such is not to be and I suppose we'll have to suffer.

The highlight or climax of today's trip came about two hours ago when we reached the little town of Ulvade, Texas. Whether you readers are aware of the fact or not, this is the hometown of famous "Texas Jack" Garner, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate. It is a typical southern village with a population, I presume of about 500. This might tend to further evidence the fact that some of our great men come from "never heard of" villages. I got off the train here for a few minutes and talked to one of the older residents. In his typical and interesting southern brogue, the friend remarked, "We all 'a mighty proud of Jack and expect to elect him." Upon learning that I was from the great Buckeye state he inquired about the political situation up north. I assured him that Ohio and other states were strong for the Roosevelt-Garner combination. He appeared very pleased upon learning this.

CROSSING RIVER

A part of the trip which I failed to mention in the first letter and which I believed was a most interesting experience to me was the crossing of the Mississippi river near New Orleans Sunday night. About 10 miles from this old French city, the train ran onto a large barge and with the help of a tow-boat we were transported across this great "father of waters." The crossing occurred about midnight and I remained awake to see the proceedings. The train was divided into two sections and taken across. The river is about two miles wide at this point and about one hour was required to get on dry land again.

After seeing nothing but water for an hour, Sunday night, and then riding 500 miles today and seeing nothing but dry prairie lands, I begin to wonder why the Maker of All did not balance this land and water situation more evenly. However when the Congress of the U. S. can't balance the budget, I presume balancing the former problem would be a still deeper one.

We just stopped at a little town of Del Rio. Whether or not it is named for the well-known movie actress, I do not know, and was unable to find out, but it certainly presented a new setting for the picture. Some very beautiful and attractive buildings together with some lovely lawns could be seen here and every passenger on the Sunset Limited rushed off when the train halted.

312 STATIONS

Up to now we have passed through 312 stations since we left Cincinnati and this number will undoubtedly be doubled when we reach Los Angeles. We arrive at the scene of the Tenth Olympiad Thursday morning at 8:50 o'clock. Last evening we had a very interesting tour through two of the largest oil refineries in the world. Those of the Gulf and The Texas Company. Both cover thousands of acres and approximately 40 products are made from the oil which is piped to the refineries from all sections of the United States. Of course the best known products are gasolines, lubricating oils and coke.

This fine lounge car in which we are now installed is brilliantly illuminated, a cool breeze is just beginning to bring relief from the sweltering temperatures of the day and in another hour "we'll be settin' on top 'o the world." But not for long. We arrive in Arizona tomorrow. Need I say more. Our next letter will probably originate near Tucson, Arizona, and until then, so long.
